Address verification needed for 911

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Residents of Hancock County are requested to register their correct addresses with proper Emergency 911 designated offices to improve present emergency response time.

Hancock County Emergency 911 dispatchers reported that a man called for Emergency 911 help recently as he was having a heart attack. As the call was being answered the man fainted before he was able to give a name and address.

Emergency 911 calls are received through a computer screen which shows the phone number from where the call is being made. The name of the man appeared along with an address as it was given to the phone company, but the address was missing part of the street name, the direction designation. Emergency service response time was delayed while Mobile Medic searched for the correct direction.

Also, residential dwellings should have clearly marked addresses. Emergency 911 personnel stressed that one consider the ability of an emergency vehicle driver to read the address marking at night. Homes which do not receive mail should also have street address markings.

In Hancock County, Emergency 911 call address verification should be made by calling the Hancock County Tax Assessor's office (467-5727). In the cities of Waveland and Bay St. Louis, residents should call their police departments and ask to check their 911 printout. They will then be asked to hang up the phone and dial 911. The 911 dispatcher will answer and a printout will appear which can then be verified (Waveland, 467-3669; Bay St. Louis, 467-9221).

Residents without phones should also call and verify that their name and address listing is correct.

Emergency 911 employees emphasized that this request is to ensure prompt emergency service and has nothing to do with postal delivery.

Thanksgiving services set for Tuesday night

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

The annual Community Thanksgiving Service will be Tuesday, Nov. 26, 7 p.m., at the First Baptist Church, Main Street, Bay St. Louis.

The service is rotated among area churches. A special collection normally goes to the Hancock County Emergency Relief, but this year's has been designated to the Food Pantry, Dr. Nathan Barber, host pastor, reports.

The reason for the change is because of a tremendous increase in the number of families requesting assistance from the Food Pantry. The Food Pantry is supported and operated by volunteer members of the area's churches.

Several local pastors will participate in Tuesday's Thanksgiving service.

Everyone is invited to attend and also to a fellowship with refreshments following the service.

Barber also reminds church members that today has been designated as Food Pantry Sunday throughout the area, and to please remember to bring your food gifts to church.

United Way campaign reaches new milestones

BY TRACI BONNEY

The United Way of Hancock County has attained 80.8 percent of its goal for 1991, according to campaign chairman Mike Haas Jr.

One of the drives contributing to that milestone of $113,213 is Calgon Carbon Corporation. The Pearl River plant at Port Bienvenue Industrial Park has obtained 100 percent employee participation in the drive.

The total dollar amount donated and pledged is $7,005, according to plant manager A.P. Wierzbowski.

Haas commented, "It's one of the best first-year United Way campaigns we've ever had in the county at a new business or industry, and a good example of what can happen when employees cooperate in a company effort of this type."

Need 1,000 jackets for distribution

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

There is a need for 1,000 jackets for deserving residents, according to Jay Fleurier, Bay Rotary Club president and "Give-A-Jacket" chairman.

The Bay Rotary Club is helping to collect the jackets which are distributed through the St. Vincent de Paul's Thrift Store in Waveland.

Donated jackets and coats are cleaned courtesy of Burrows Cleaners of Bay St. Louis.

Anyone wishing to contribute a coat or jacket, can bring it to: St. Vincent's Thrift Store, The Sea Coast Echo, 124 Court Street; or Main Street United Methodist Church's office, South Second Street, Bay St. Louis.

Fleurier said, "We need jackets and coats for all ages, especially for boys and girls. Some folks may think 1,000 jackets are many, but I can assure you that all received will be put to good use."

Supervisors for annexation

Accepts Bay plan for Bay Cove Harbour

BY TRACI BONNEY
City and county officials are hoping that Bay St. Louis planned annexation of the Bay Cove area is the all-win situation it appears to be.

At a Friday supervisors meeting, Bay St. Louis Mayor Edward Favre requested a resolution from the supervisors endorsing the city's plan to annex the area which includes Bay Cove Harbour, site of a proposed destination resort and dockside gambling vessel.

The board of supervisors approved the mayor's request, but only after much discussion with Favre, each other and Sheriff Ronald Peterson.

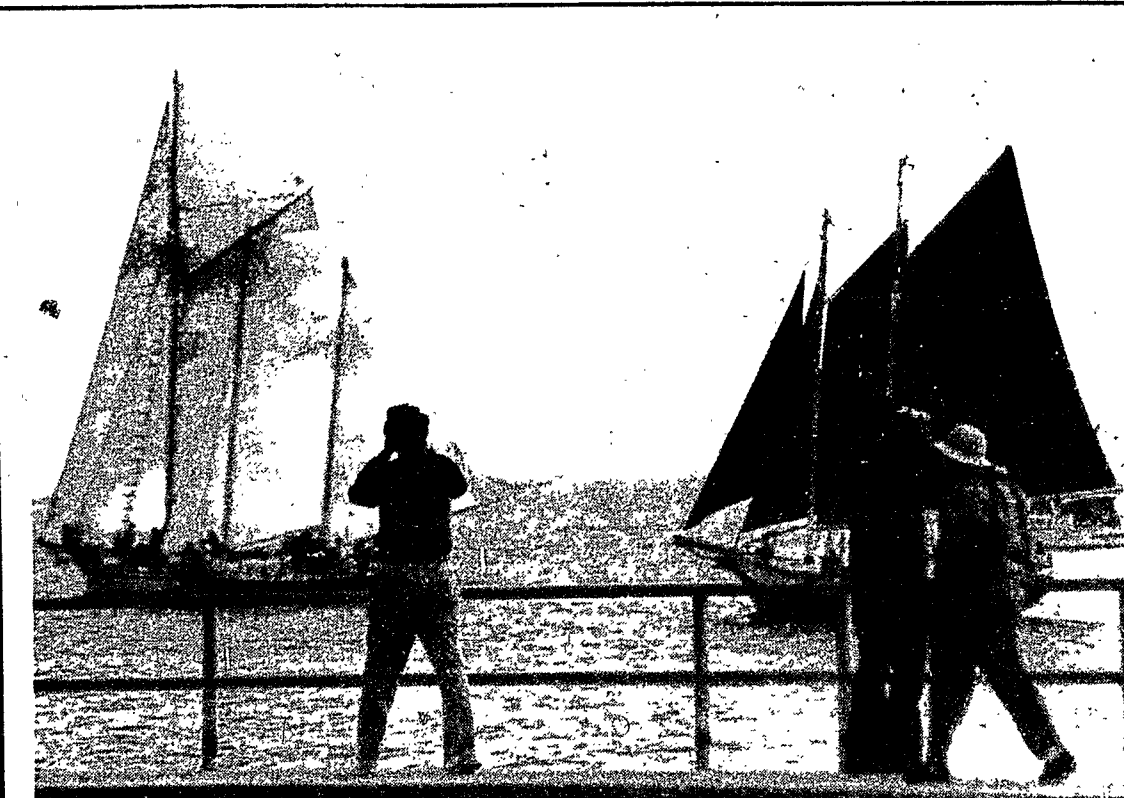

The sheriff asked the board to consider the county's future law enforcement needs and the possible revenue sources to meet those needs.

He pointed out that an impact study conducted for the city indicates that Bay St. Louis may need to hire seven or eight more police officers in the future, after dockside gambling developments are established.

Peterson then said that if the city will need additional officers, it seems logical to assume that the sheriff's department will need to increase its staff as well.

"Is the county going to just give the city the blessing to annex Bay Cove, or are you going to sit down with the city and talk about the revenues?" he asked.

The revenues Peterson referred to are those derived from a $2.50 per person boarding fee for the dockside vessels, and a $100-per-machine/gaming device tax to be levied

Board okays beach bond intent

BY TRACI BONNEY

The renourishment of the Hancock County beaches is another step closer to reality.

The board of supervisors Friday approved a motion of intent to authorize bonds up to $3 million, to replenish segments of the county's sand beaches.

Board attorney Gerald Gex said the amount is not binding; the county will be able to use whatever it needs to complete the project. However, he estimates that the cost of the project will not reach that mark, but will be about $2 million, including repair of the drainage system.

Board president Ronald Cuevas said, "The renourishment is one of the major objectives we set four years ago. I'm very happy to see it now at the point of beginning. It's in sight."

The sand beach renourishment project has been in the study and planning stages for about five years. The project calls for the renourishment of up to 6.2 miles of beach throughout the county.

Gex said the money to pay the bonds will come from the seawall tax revenues, since one of the beach's main functions is to protect the seawall from being undermined by wave action and storm damage.

Waveland dodges alternative school

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

On Wednesday, the Waveland Board of Aldermen told Dr.

She said, as an educator, she understood the problems, but she did not see why the cities long run reduces the individual's ability as a contributor in a community.

"These kids do not qualify in the Chapter I Program, nor do they qualify for Special Education," he added. "They are falling through the cracks of the present education system."

when completed will cost an estimated $700,000 a year to operate.

Chevis said, "We are asking for $15,000 from each of the two cities and from the county, but we will take any amount you can offer."

The board took the request should have to contribute to a private school to handle that which is the responsibility of the present school districts.

Peterson: Gillich just another inmate

BY TRACI BONNEY

Mike Gillich Jr., convicted of murder conspiracy and wire fraud in the Sherry trial last week, is just another inmate to Hancock Sheriff Ronald Peterson.

Gillich was transferred Thursday from Hattiesburg to the Hancock County jail to await sentencing, over the protests of his attorney, Albert Nacaise.

When asked about extra security measures, Peterson said, "No, he's just like any other inmate. He's in a cell block with three other inmates, and he's not getting any special treatment.

"As far as extra security measures, we don't see any need for them at this time. If the need arises, we'll consider extra security, but we don't see that need right now."

Nacaise protested the transfer, claiming that federal authorities are trying to inconvenience Gillich by holding him in Bay St. Louis while his family is in Biloxi.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Kent McDaniel, whose office won convictions against Gillich and three others in the trial, said he could not comment on the transfer, and added that it is up to the U.S. Marshal to decide where federal prisoners are held.

Peterson said he had not read the Sun Herald article in Friday's edition that told of the transfer, but his remarks concurred with McDaniel's.

"The only reason we're housing him is as a courtesy to the federal marshal," Peterson stated.

"I look for him to be here probably until the first part of January, when he is due to be sentenced."

Gillich was found guilty along with three others of wire fraud and conspiring to kill Circuit Court Judge Vincent Sherry.

Sherry and his wife Margaret were found shot to death in their Biloxi home on September 14, 1987.

Smokeout passes quietly through Hancock

BY TRACI BONNEY
 Did you know Thursday was the Great American Smokeout? If not, don't feel too upset. Neither did many other folks, apparently.

At the request of my publisher, Ellis Cuevas, I set out on a quest Thursday to find someone who had stopped smoking for the day. My first stop, quite naturally, was The Sea Coast Echo office.

We have a few smokers on the staff, but none of them had stopped for the day. One employee is cutting back, but said she hadn't worked up the nerve to quit cold turkey.

Next, I called the county courthouse. No one there had decided to temporarily kick the habit either. In fact, a certain county official (who shall remain nameless) was reported to be "smoking her brains out."

Letting my fingers do the walking across the telephone keys, I contacted Mary Daggett at The Eatery. She had been involved in last year's Smokeout—she held a drawing in conjunction with WBSL for a $102 cash prize and made a box in the restaurant available for folks to trash their "coffin nails"—so I figured she could corral someone for me to interview.

I came up empty again. Mary said she hadn't heard anything this year, that no one had really publicized the event.

As a last-ditch effort, I called City Hall. I decided if I struck out there, I was going to give up.

Well, who should answer the phone but receptionist Joyce Rhodes. Joyce was the winner of last year's drawing and, as it turns out, has been smoke-free for a whole year.

She wasn't aware that she had reached the first anniversary of her stopping.

She said she couldn't very well have smoked after winning the drawing. "I would have hated to have to give the money back," she commented. Joyce smoked about 1½ packs a day before she quit. She said it wasn't easy to stay smoke-free.

"I gained about 10 pounds, which I am in the process of trying to lose at Loiacano's."

But was it worth the effort to stop?

"I feel healthier; I breathe better. I don't cough and cough like I used to; I don't hack in the mornings when I wake up. I can tell the difference."

BRIDGE CONSTRUCTION

Q. Is there more than one type of bridge for replacing one or a few teeth?

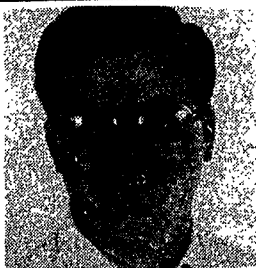

A. Yes, and each has certain advantages. The most common types:

- A fixed bridge is a single unit consisting of one or more natural-looking synthetic teeth between two hollow crowns. The crowns fit over teeth on each side of the gap which have been shaped to receive them.
- A Maryland bridge uses metal clasps instead of crowns to attach a replacement to adjacent teeth, which undergo much less shaping than crowns require.
- A removable bridge has metal clips that attach to adjoining teeth, and the user can easily insert and remove it.

Missing teeth affect eating, speaking and the stability of remaining teeth, as well as appearance. The sooner they are replaced, the sooner a person can enjoy the benefits.

City solicits residents' comments

Special to the Echo
The Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning Commission is soliciting public comment concerning areas of the existing zoning ordinances currently under consideration for revision.

The Commission wishes to add this input to the recommendations expected shortly from Paul Buckhurst & Associates, consultants, preparing recommendations for a new zoning ordinance for the City of Bay St. Louis. The present objective is to review regulations and procedures regarding the uses of private land either already established or likely to be proposed.

At the outset, it is the intention of the Planning and Zoning Commission to recommend retention of existing rules and methods in cases where no specific reason exists to cause change.

The primary means of this public participation will be by written comments only, which when received by the Planning and Zoning Commission, will be sorted by topic, reviewed and included into the Public Record of the Commission during the Dec. 12 meeting. Deadline for receipt for the Dec. 12 meeting will be noon, Dec. 5 in the office of the Building Inspector.

These residents' recommendations will be considered by the Commission in forming the material to be sent to the City Attorney for review prior to recommendation to the City Council for approval.

Examples of questions and concepts currently under review by the Commission and its consultants are available on the office of the building inspector, first floor, City Hall, Second Street, and the Hancock County Library, 312 Hwy. 90, Bay St. Louis.

The following are some examples of those questions and concepts:

1. Clarification or redefinition of the code mechanism "Special Exception."

2. Should a Board of Zoning Adjustment be revived as an additional entity empowered to make final decisions on routine variance procedures, relieving the City Council of this responsibility? Under this proposal, the Board of Zoning Adjustment (BZA) would be separate from a "Planning and Zoning Department" which would operate in an advisory capacity to the BZA.

3. Should means be adopted to foster neighborhood preservation by restricting demolition of buildings and encouraging compatible development within selected districts?

4. Should gaming activities be treated as a defined conditional use, or a special exception?

5. Development plans (Site plan review); revise requirements for review of landscaping, lighting, parking and acoustic standards for subdivisions, planned developments, commercial buildings, etc.

6. Review sign and display regulations in all districts.

7. Review parking requirements.

8. Should zoning affect adjacent waters and should a Maritime District be defined for pier and shore uses such as marinas, fisheries, etc.?

9. How should we treat specialized commercial uses featuring adult entertainment?

10. How should we treat temporary uses such as farm stands, temporary displays and signs, etc.?

11. Should a certificate of occupancy based on lister performance standards (hours of operation, noise and glare, proximity) be required?

12. Review for completion and appropriateness property setback and height restrictions in all districts.

13. Should special use districts not presently mentioned in the existing ordinances be included (for example, medical park for labs, offices and research; high technology park for light industry; small incubator businesses, craft and cottage industries, etc.)?

14. How should we regulate the impact of property use regarding vehicular and pedestrian traffic, utilities (lighting standards, sewage lift stations, dumpsters, electric utility structures), noise generation, signage, landscaping, etc.?

15. Review and redefine non-conforming uses and establish amortization mechanisms to bring such uses into conformance with the revised ordinances.

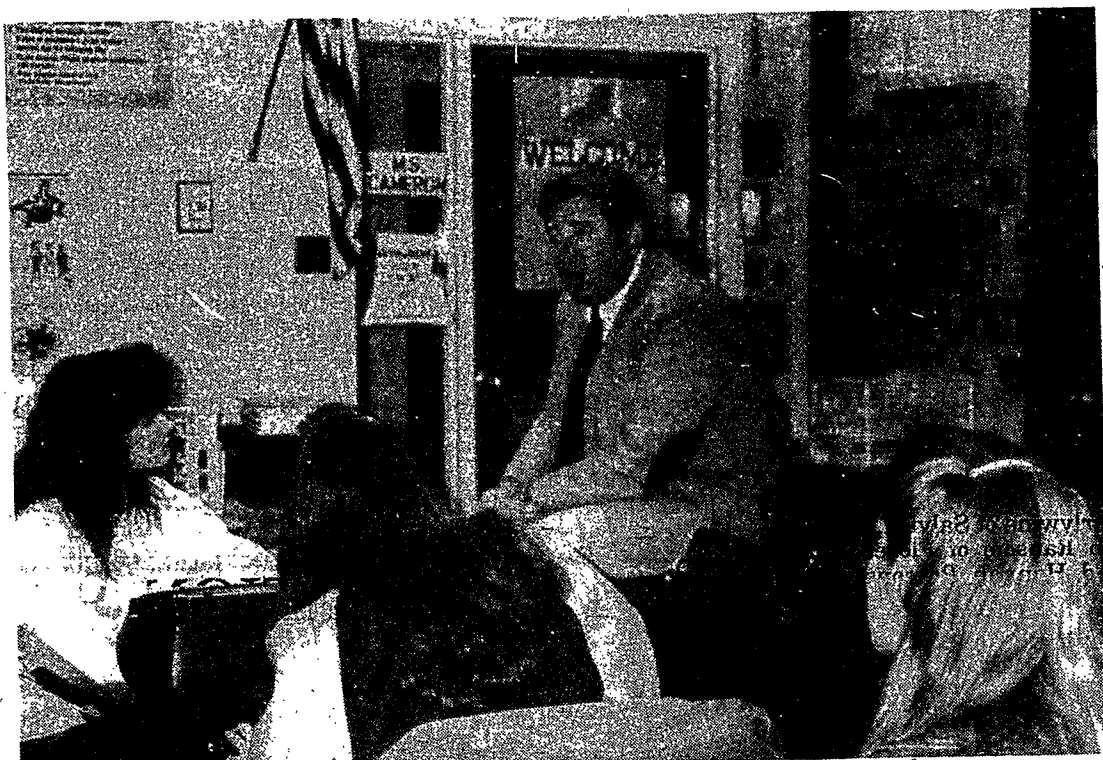

The Commission suggests that interested residents familiarize themselves with both the Bay St. Louis Zoning Ordinances and Title 17 of the Mississippi Code prior to submitting their recommendations. Copies of these documents are available in the reference section of the public library and the office of the Building Inspector, first floor, City Hall.

Mayor Edward Favre stated that the present comprehensive zoning plan and zoning ordinance revision is the most important part of the study currently being made by Buckhurst and Associates.

"While public attention is focused on the gaming issue and that portion of the study, the comprehensive plan and new ordinance will have the most impact on the city and its future. The ordinance will be the day-to-day mechanism the city uses to direct residential and commercial development.

"A new plan and ordinance has been the priority initiative for this administration. They will be used as a business recruitment and expansion tool for economic development through our Main Street program, for preservation and rehabilitation of historic structures and in existing neighborhoods, to direct residential development to its maximum in the minimum space the city has for growth.

"The public has an obligation to assist the administration in the orderly development of the new ordinance. By submitting their suggestions in written form we have a permanent record for review and consideration. I'm confident that they will participate."

Death of Bay man under investigation

BY TRACI BONNEY

The death of a Bay St. Louis man is being investigated as a murder, according to Bay St. Louis Police Department Investigator David Parker.

Parker said the department received a call Wednesday at 9:58 p.m. that a shooting had occurred at 526 7th Street. When officers responded, it was discovered that Daniel R. Armstrong, 34, of 526 7th Street, was dead from a gunshot wound in the stomach.

According to the police report, he was apparently shot by his girlfriend, Jodine L. "Jodie" Heintz, 34, of the same address, with a 22-gauge rifle following a domestic quarrel. Parker said no motive had been

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

This is a real busy season for many because of the holidays ahead.

On Tuesday night, the annual Community Thanksgiving service will be held 7 p.m. at the First Baptist Church, Main Street, Bay St. Louis.

The special services are conducted by the pastors from the area's churches, and rotates between the different churches.

This year the special collection will be taken for the Hancock County Food Pantry. As many of you are aware of, the Food Pantry has been serving more and more families in recent months and supplies can become low very fast.

The number of deserving families has doubled according to the volunteers who run the program.

We, as a community have many things to be thankful for and I am hoping there will be a large attendance at the special Community Thanksgiving service.

Since my office is across the street from the Food Pantry, I can see the good that this very worthwhile program has done for our citizens.

I hope all will be as generous as they can in helping the Food Pantry.

While on the subject of the Hancock County Food Pantry, I would like to remind folks that today is Food Pantry Sunday, and non-perishable foods and donations will be collected from the area's churches for the program.

As the Thanksgiving and Christmas season is with us, we need to remember our fellow men and help them whenever possible.

The Food Pantry is one of those agencies which works throughout the year for deserving families, helping them when they need it the most.

It is hoped that the special collection today and the one at the Community Thanksgiving services will both be very successful.

This is just a reminder for those who may have failed to make their reservations for the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's annual banquet scheduled for Friday, December 6.

Cindy Vernon, executive director, on Friday reported there were only 80 seats left and she is expecting a good number of reservations to be received over the weekend.

I would suggest you give her or Georgia a call to reserve your seat now.

Federal Railroad Administrator Gil Carmichael will be the guest speaker.

I am hoping he will be bringing more good news about a passenger train stopping in Bay St. Louis once again.

A record number Hancock County merchants from Bay St. Louis, Waveland, and Diamondhead are participating in the Hancock's Red Ribbon Christmas Celebration.

Local merchants have a large stock of many items and a fine array of Christmas gifts.

A person can find just about any gift right here at home and you all know that it pays to Shop at Home.

Some 42 merchants will be participating in a gift certificate swap, where customers can register at one store for a gift certificate worth $25 from another store.

I hope to see you when you Shop at Home!

Illegal dumping

Bay St. Louis Police Department Detective David Parker looks over the shoulder as Bay officer Jeff Hair copies the serial numbers off four television sets found along Beach Boulevard in the Cedar Point area Monday. Parker said, the Bay department will investigate the dumping of the sets and anyone caught littering or dumping within the city's limits will be ticketed. In cooperation with a Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's beautification effort underway, Bay Police Chief Frank McNeil has issued a statement that his department will also enforce all litter laws. ## LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Resident differs with election commissioner

To the Editor:

I am responding to a letter to the editor from Hancock County Election Commissioner Betsy Nolan.

Commissioner Nolan asked for the Republican Executive Committee to apologize for insulting the county pollworkers.

I am a member of the executive committee and I don't believe we insulted anyone.

I personally appreciate the Democratic pollworkers I met, and I admire their dedication.

The executive committee only asked for Mississippi Code 23-15-231 to be followed as the law requires.

It basically says that the pollworkers cannot be members of the same political party if suitable persons of a different party are available.

The Republican Executive Committee gave the commissioners a list of names of Republican pollworkers that were trained by the election commission.

We only asked for one Republican per precinct. We are citizens, voters and taxpayers. Our political party is our citizens group.

The Republican Party strives for economy in government and certainly doesn't want extra pollworkers.

We did not try to control who should work the polls. It is up to the election commissioners to determine how many pollworkers will work, and we will participate in the process by asking for the law to be obeyed.

There are dead and maimed war veterans who fought to defend the rights of all Americans to participate in the government process.

Citizen and citizen group involvement will keep elections honest. I will never believe in crushing Democrats.

I maintain that healthy, fair competition is our nation's greatest asset when it operates correctly.

A book in the county library documents that southern states that developed healthy two-party systems excelled in economy, education and culture.

I have faith in our American system of checks and balances.

The Mississippi Code is designed to provide the checks and balances during elections. Bring on the competition. Let the next election begin.

We must always give thanks for blessings

For the next several weeks, Mississippi families will join with their neighbors throughout the county to celebrate a season of thanksgiving, peace and rebirth.

This past year has been one of many changes.

We have been the lead nation in the liberation of a country, faced with enslavement and aggression.

We have seen the fall of Communism in Europe's biggest country.

And, in our state, we share a kinship and dedication to the future that makes Mississippi such a special place.

Things are changing at a rapid pace. However, we must never forget to give thanks to those people who help us hold on to our important holiday traditions.

First and foremost, we must be grateful for our children. Their fresh approach and inquisitive minds are what give us hope for the future. Just look into their wide eyes and innocent smiles. Their faces show us that we have a better tomorrow on the horizon.

Next, we must thank our families. They are the ones that are with us through good times and bad, when we laugh and when we cry. They are the foundation of our lives.

We are also blessed to have our friends. With them, we share our important moments, our dreams and our trusts. We

Garbage on Main Street

For most of us, trash is no big deal.

We empty a can of soup, finish reading the daily paper, toss them into a bag with the other garbage, put the bag into the trash can and haul the whole load to the curb twice a week where it conveniently disappears.

But, for many county boards of supervisors across the state, garbage has become a very big deal indeed.

Right now there are at least 100 solid waste disposal facilities operating across Mississippi. We have been putting our garbage into these dumps for years.

The trouble is almost none of these dumps meet new federal requirements for solid waste management.

The Nonhazardous Solid

Waste Planning Act passed by the 1991 Legislature, which correctly anticipated action by the federal government on the issue, ordered the county boards of supervisors to develop waste management plans by the second week in July 1992.

Well, the federal government has now handed down new regulations governing solid waste disposal facilities, and as anticipated, most of Mississippi's dumps will have to be upgraded or eliminated by the end of 1993.

While it's true that most boards of supervisors, like most of us, are not experts on solid waste management, they assumed upon their election the responsibility to learn.

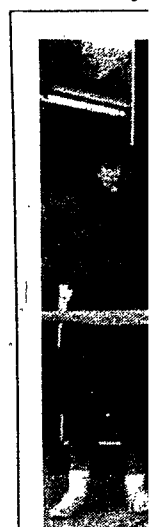

Mississippi has enough problems without garbage piling up on Main Street.

Keesler Medical Center receives more accreditation

Keesler Medical Center, and the people it serves, received a double dose of good news recently—accreditation of the respiratory therapy laboratory and blood bank.

The lab's two-year accreditation by the Commission on Laboratory Accreditation of the College of American Pathologists is a first for such facilities in the Air Force, medical center officials said.

Holt had appeared at a previous meeting and explained his belonging to Dennis Holt be held until she had time to physically measure the area in question.

The blood bank's existing accreditation was renewed by the American Association of Blood Banks.

inability to keep the area cleared of dumping since he did not live in Waveland and the property was unattended.

Rappold felt the area needing to be adjudicated encompassed more than the four lots listed.

The board agreed to wait until the next city meeting before taking action on the Holt property.

Resident Richard Labatut appeared before the board to register a complaint that he felt water and sewerage rates for the city of Waveland were too high.

"I didn't have a problem with the increase, as much as I thought the charges were excessive to begin with," he said.

Labatut read from a listing of prices he personally claimed to have solicited from surrounding cities. By his listing, Waveland was the highest in basic service costs. He did acknowledge that compared to the other areas he surveyed, Waveland customers receive the most in water volume for its base cost.

Utilities supervisor Michael Barnes said a primary reason for Waveland's higher utility cost stems from a loss of potential revenues attributed to lack of usage by second home owners.

Mayor Stella Friot added that the cost of running the city continues to increase and the unusually high amount of breaks occurring in the present sewer system has added to the city's financial burdens.

City attorney Lucien Gex was instructed to compose a resolution whereby a 12-foot alley between Faith and Gladstone Streets will be abandoned by the city.

In other business the board approved:

—the purchase of a grinder pump to be placed on the property of Louie Smolensky for the purpose of alleviating sewerage back-up caused by a gravity flow problem;

—the selling back of property to John Hulitsky for $488;

—unmarked cars for the remainder of 1991-92, as required by the state auditor's office;

—travel for Jimmy Varnell to attend the Mississippi Association of Chiefs of Police Mid-Winter Conference in Vicksburg.

Taylor gets barges for Coast counties

Three surplus government barges will soon be carrying broken concrete and bricks into the Mississippi Sound to create new fishing reefs along the Gulf Coast.

Early this month, the Army Corps of Engineers in Vicksburg allowed Harrison and Jackson counties to obtain the barges at a bargain price of $1,500 for all three.

For nearly half a year my office and I have been working with county supervisors and Corps officials to make this proposal a reality. I am truly elated the barges are finally tied up on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

In March, I headed to Vicksburg with a delegation of coastal county supervisors and city leaders to check into the possibility of purchasing the barges. Now that we have the barges, we can do something good for our habitat without it costing the taxpayers a fortune. For decades, "riprap" left over from demolished buildings and other clean construction materials has been hauled to county landfills, where space is shrinking.

The barges will allow cities private contractors and other sources to store "riprap" until full, where it will then be towed out to the Mississippi Sound.

During the '50s and '60s, one of the mistakes that was made was to allow concrete companies from Louisiana to come over to Mississippi and dredge up all our natural shell reefs.

In less than two decades, the dredging destroyed the environment that attracted small shrimp and fish. Those small shrimp and fish lured the larger game fish that sportsmen so desperately now seek.

The reefs will be formed within a half-mile off shore. Because of this, shrimpers won't get their trawls caught up in the reefs, and fishermen will be able to wade or row out to their favorite fishing spots.

The three barges, which are bolted together, are presently docked at the mouth of the Pearl River at Port Bienville. After being unbolted at the port, Harrison County will receive two of the barges and Jackson County will receive one.

Once the barges, 120 feet by 30 feet each, are permanently docked, county officials have arranged to have a ribbon cutting ceremony to mark the Coast's continued efforts to replenish the Mississippi Sound's natural resources. The ribbon cutting ceremony will be announced at a later date.

Striped bass released in Pearl

The Gulf Coast Research Laboratory in Ocean Springs has released a record number of lab-reared striped bass this year, according to project leader Larry Nicholson.

About 132,000 two-inch Phase I fish were released in July, with over 14,000 six-inch tagged strippers stocked in the Pascagoula and Pearl Rivers in late October.

This year, GCRL was unable to secure striped bass fry from usual sources in Alabama and South Carolina because of high water and equipment problems.

Nicholson finally obtained two-day old fry from New York's Verplanck Hatchery in mid-May. This was the first time the GCRL program used fish from the New York hatchery and Nicholson was pleased with the adaptability and hardness of the fish.

Additionally, this was only the second year that the young fish remained in the laboratory's recirculating system for the entire culture period, rather than being transferred to an Alabama mariculture center after reaching Phase I size.

"Last year we lost a lot of fish to disease, but this year our Phase II culture survival rate was over 87 percent," Nicholson pointed out.

Since 1967, GCRL has been involved in a number of projects designed to reestablish natural striped bass populations in Mississippi's coastal streams. Current research activities are funded by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the National Marine Fisheries Service.

Anglers are encouraged to call GCRL at 872-4200 when they catch a striped bass, whether tagged or not, to report the length, weight and location of the catch. This information will assist researchers in monitoring the success of stocking efforts.

Red Raiders win two, lose one

Special to the Echo
The Coast Episcopal Red Raiders moved into first place of the Mississippi Private School Association South 1-A District last weekend with a pair of District wins over Chamberlain Hunt Academy and Rankin Academy.

Friday, Nov. 15 — In Port Gibson, the Raiders were able to come back from a 10-point second half deficit to defeat Chamberlain Hunt 48-42. Senior Chris Painter led the way with 27 points, 10 rebounds and three assists, while shooting 63 percent from the floor. Junior Joey Fore chipped in 13 points and 13 rebounds, and senior Adam Farragut dished out seven assists.

Saturday, Nov. 16 — The home standing Raiders played their best game of the year with a 67-42 victory over Rankin Academy. The Raiders, despite giving up several inches in size to Rankin's 6'5" and 6'4" post players, out-rebounded the Falcons 44 to 26.

Fore poured in 23 points and pulled down 10 rebounds. Painter hit for 18 points while grabbing nine rebounds. Farragut contributed seven assists, while eighth grader Tommy Rummell and junior George Hlass grabbed eight and six rebounds each. Senior Dave Hagan chipped in with five steals.

Tuesday, Nov. 19 — The Raiders came up just short against 2-A Columbia Academy. Despite having several players stricken with the flu, the team's effort pleased Raider coach Keith McQueen.

"We shot as poorly as we have all year, and we still hung in there 'til the end against the much larger team," he said. "I'm not going to use the flu as an excuse for our players. We lost the game by five points and missed eight free throws, several of which were the front ends of a one-and-one bonus situation."

For the night, Farragut led the way for the Raiders with 15 points and five assists. Hlass chipped in seven rebounds and five steals. The Raiders are now 4-2 overall and 2-0 in the MPSA South 1-A District.

This weekend, the Raiders travelled to Faith Academy in Pascagoula Friday night and Pine Hills Academy Saturday night. Game details were not available at press time.

The Raiders' next home game is Tuesday, Nov. 26. Admission for students to this game is three nonperishable food items for the school's Thanksgiving basket, which is being donated to the Community Action Agency.

Crescents thrash Eagles

Special to the Echo
The OLA Crescents fired up their soccer season Monday night with an 8-0 win over the Resurrection Eagles.

OLA came out fighting with the first goal by Kim Weinstein, assisted by Kathryn Scaffide. Not long after, Weinstein scored again with a long cross into the net.

The offensive players kept the ball in Eagle territory most of the time, and the defense held the Resurrection team from scoring. Jonna Ellis, assisted by Lindsay Heitzman and Day Hays, made a third goal at the end of the first half.

In the second half, Heitzman made another goal for the team with a beautiful chest trap, short dribble and powerful instep shot. In response to a corner kick, Beth Dillenkoffer cashed in on the fifth goal.

SHOPPING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire Caire

Are dreams of turkeys and dressing and sweet potatoes and all the other "trimmings" of the Thanksgiving feast running through your head these days, along with a few nightmares as to how you're going to get all the shopping and cooking done?

Well, you're far from alone, except for some super-organized souls such as one friend of mine who has most of her Thanksgiving dinner already cooked and waiting in the freezer; so she'll thaw out and relax while others are going through their last-minute frenzies. She has also finished her Christmas shopping, whereas I haven't even started!

"Not to worry, our area

Thanksgiving dinner complete without sweet potatoes, especially those sweeter than sweet yams, would we? Our cooks on the Gulf Coast prepare them in many especially good ways, as do our Louisiana neighbors, for instance, as in:

PRALINE-TOPPED SWEET POTATOES

8 sweet potatoes
2 cups chopped pecans
1 cup brown sugar
3/4 cup margarine
Pinch of salt
1 tsp. vanilla
Bake the sweet potatoes at 350 degrees for approximately an hour; peel, slice and place in buttered 9x13-inch baking dish. Mix together the pecans, brown sugar, margarine, salt and vanilla in a saucepan; bring to a boil and cook for 2 to 3 minutes. Pour over the potatoes and bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes. (8 servings)—from "Cajun Cuisine" cookbook (Beau Bayou Publishing Co.)

And, from this same cookbook, published deep in the heart of Louisiana's Bayou country, comes this simple and tasty:

CAJUN SWEET POTATOES

6 to 8 sweet potatoes
2 cups sugar
1/4 cup water
1/4 cup butter
1 tsp. cinnamon
Bake the sweet potatoes (preferably yams) at 350 degrees for an hour; cool, peel and slice in a baking dish. Mix the sugar, water, butter and cinnamon in a saucepan and bring to boil. Boil for 15 minutes, then pour the syrup over the sweet potatoes and bake for 45 minutes at 350 degrees. (8 servings)

And, for a quick but good version, from the "Centennial Celebration Cookbook" of the excellent cooks of Christ Church in Bay St. Louis, try:

SKILLET CANDIED SWEET POTATOES

1/2 stick butter
1/4 cup white sugar
1 (1 lb. 13-oz.) can sweet potatoes

Cinnamon, to your taste
Melt the butter in a heavy skillet, add the sugar and stir until almost dissolved. Add cinnamon, then potatoes. Turn the heat to simmer and cook for 15 minutes, uncovered, gently turning potatoes and spooning the syrup over them.

And, let's not forget sweet potato pie: Or shall it be mince or pumpkin pie?

supermarkets are well stocked with turkeys of all sorts and sizes, from small to huge, fresh and frozen, smoked, butterball, self-basting, equipped with pop-up timers and what have you. Prices are good, as well. You'll also find turkey breasts, smoked or not to suit your needs.

Fresh and frozen ducklings are also on hand, as are baking hens. (And, if you wish, the deli departments will provide a turkey dinner, complete with all the "trimmings" for your table. If you don't want turkey, baked ham dinners are also available from the deli.

Many of us, especially here in the South, wouldn't consider

READING THE BIBLE IS RAPID COMMUNICATION WITH GOD

We live in an age of rapid communication: the telephone, express mail, and the incredible FAX machine, by which we can relay our messages thousands of miles in a few minutes. Our choice of method depends, of course, on the urgency of the information we are trying to send or receive. There are times, however, when we need help or advice from a higher source than any that can be reached by some modern communication channel. That can be obtained at our House of Worship and by talking to our clergyman. Moreover, when that isn't feasible, there is always the Bible, waiting there on the bookshelf. It contains God's vital messages for us, and we need only open it in order to receive them instantly.

As a guide, the Bible is without a rival. — Author unknown

Museum adds Ohr pottery to collection

The Mississippi Museum of Art/Gulf Coast has recently acquired four more pieces of pottery by George E. Ohr to add to its permanent collection and exhibit in the artist's hometown. The pieces are representative of the various styles used by the man who "changed the shape" of pottery as we see it today.

George Edgar Ohr, otherwise known as "The Mad Potter of Biloxi," made a name for himself through his art while living and working in the Biloxi, Gulf Coast area from 1883 to his death in 1918.

His fame really spread after his death however, when the "popular culture" discovered the genius behind the works that caught the attention of the human mind, as well as the eye. George Ohr was the "father of art pottery"—before his time pottery was seen as a strictly utilitarian item with no aesthetic value.

Ohr is known for his unique glazes, bizarre forms and "puzzle mugs"—all represented in the Mississippi Museum of Art's collection.

The four pieces: Puzzle Mug, Green Glaze Mug with Inscription, Vase with Metallic Glaze and Unglazed Bisque Candles-tick, also feature Ohr's unusual propensity for including inscriptions in his pottery.

The Mississippi Museum of Art owns three other George E. Ohr works also currently on display at the Biloxi branch of the museum, along with an Ohr vase on loan from a friend of the museum.

The MMA/Gulf Coast is located in the Biloxi Cultural Center at 136 George E. Ohr St., Biloxi. Admission is free.

For more information on the George E. Ohr pottery or any of the other exhibits or educational programming available at the MMA/Gulf Coast, call 374-5547.

Agencies sought to provide emergency food and shelter

Special to the Echo
Approximately $17,000 has been made available to assist the needy through the Emergency Food and Shelter National Board Program, according to Jay Fleuriot, president of St. Vincent de Paul Society St. Clare Conference.

Non profit agencies in Hancock County that wish to provide these services may submit applications Tuesday, Dec. 10, at Coast Electric Power Association, Hwy. 90 and Main, Bay St. Louis.

Agency representatives may appeal for funds to a local emergency food and shelter board at the CEPA office at 9:30 a.m. All board members, past and present, are encouraged to attend the meeting.

The local board has been set up to distribute $17,000 in federal funds in 1991. Agencies currently providing, or which are capable of providing, shelter, food and supportive services for homeless and other needy people are eligible to apply for the funds.

The program, which supplements and expands efforts to feed and shelter the homeless, is one of 18 related programs created by the Stewart B. McKinney Homeless Assistance Act, signed into law in 1987 and re-authorized in November 1988.

The local board consists of representatives of the United Way, Catholic Social Services (St. Vincent de Paul), American Red Cross, Community Action Agency and others.

For more information, call Fleuriot at 467-7846.

The supervisors passed a resolution during the summer requesting an identical local annexation, Favre said he has been in contact with most of the property owners in the area the city is looking at, and all but one person he has spoken with is in favor of annexation.

He commented that most of the property owners want the fire protection and other ser-

He stated, "Down the line — one year from now, two years from now — I'm going to be coming to you, and I don't want to be in a situation of you telling me, 'You should have brought that up already.' I'm just trying to look at the future."

Bay Cove developer Charles Lambert, who attended the meeting, commented afterward, "I love to see the city and county work things out. We all have a common goal — the best interests of the people in the area to be annexed, the city and the county."

Favre remarked, "I think this annexation will benefit both public and private sectors with increased residential and commercial development. It isn't often that we can enjoy a win-win project."
